Marriage Spoiled All.

"Those were my happy days," said Mrs. Pool to an Evening World reporter to-day, as she sat waiting to discard her trousers in the prison pen "But marriage spolled it all."

"Say," and the young woman plunged into the vernacular, "marriage is bum. It's worse than burn when you tie up with a dead one, as I did. It may sound funny to you, but I married Charles S. Pool to get rid of him. I was working as cashier in a big candy shop when he first peeped me. Maybe I gave him a soulful glance or two, but if I did I ought to be hung.

It is mighty sure that something got him winging and after he had once taken the fancy there was no shaking him off. He told me he was a buyer in oils and paint and he seemed to have plenty of the queer. Also, and this pignity of the queer. Also, and unis is true, he was the heir to quite a little money left by his father. He got a steady income from this.

"Finally he pestered me so with his attentions that it was a Case of marry him or lose my job. I married him, changing my flame of Natalia Clark for Mrs. Charles S. Pool. I hate that name so now-I could eat anything it was printed on. He sure was an inverted success as a husband. He did not even have a disposition at first and married life was certainly tame. But as time went on he began to sprout about as mean and cussed a disposition as ever grew on a man.

Given 15 Cents a Day to Live On.

"He kept me in this house like a day for me to live on. What an Esquimeau would treat his mother-in-law better than that. Then he began to make life the interesting by fanding on me whenever I didn't please him. I got my black eyes almost as-regular as the fifteen cents for lunch." As soon as wife No. I learned to smake life interesting by fanding on at any black eyes almost as-regular as the fifteen cents for lunch. "At last I begged him to take mout, and he did. He led me to the worst places in town and seemed pleased that his dainty little wife fell into naughty habits. I learned to smoke and to drink. I learned to smoke and to drink I learned to smoke and to drink I learned to smoke and to drink. I learned to smoke and to drink I lea h was, and finally I knew I stand him any longer, and we divided.

Heard He Had Another Wife.

"But all this is not what started me out in search of him. I learned that he had another wife. Now, I don't know whether or not she is dead or alive, divorced or still married to him. My curiosity was en fire, and I decided to learn.

"He used to cruise a lot around the Tenderloin and I thought I'd search for him there. Now a lady can't gambol about in such fields and remain a lady. So I became a man. It was after I had brain fever, tried to commit suicide by jumping in the river, was arrested, arraigned and reprintanced. Foot Mould Arch-Supporting Shoes

EVEN if you don't know anything about the benefits derived from wearing arch-supporting shoes, the high prices asked for them by other shoe stores must suggest their value to people with siling feet. people with ailing feet. If you suffer from "flat foot" or any other foot or ankle weakness caused by a weak arch, there is nothing that will relieve you so well as Poot Mould Arch-Supporting shoes.

Many forms of foot allment can be traced to a broken down arch—and can be cured if the proper shoes are worn.

So effective are arch-supporting shoes in relieving foot troubles that many dealers have sought to place upon them an inflated value, and you'll pay for more than shoe value if you buy them elsewhere. Our Foot Mould Arch-Supporting Shoes are our famous Foot Moulds with a

Foot Mould steel arch su port built in—and they are positively the equal in wear, comfort, fit and looks of any of the arch-supporting shoes sold at specialty stores at Our price for Foot Mould Arch-Supporting Shoes for men or women is
